Certification Requirements and Licensure to use Dr. Yang Yang's Intellectual Property

In this section, the terms "Participant," "the Center," and "Instructor Certification" are as defined in the waiver section above. Additionally, the term "Participant's School" refers to the Taiji/Qigong business that is entirely owned, operated, and controlled by the Certified Instructor. The term "Third-Party Organization" refers to any organization independent of the Participant's School.

I, the Participant, recognize that the "Center for Taiji Studies" and "Dr. Yang Yang's Evidence- Based Taiji (EBT) and Qigong Program" are trademarks of the Center for Taiji Studies. I understand that certification as an EBT Instructor is entirely at the discretion of the Center for Taiji Studies, and requires:

- completion of minimum training requirements
- passing the performance and written examinations; and
- recertification every two (2) years

I further understand that certification as an EBT Instructor affords limited licensure to use Dr. Yang Yang's name and intellectual property to advertise, and to provide Taiji/Qigong instruction within, the Participant's School only. Additional licensing, beyond instructor certification, is required to use Dr. Yang Yang's name and intellectual property to provide Taiji/Qigong instruction to any third-party organization, whether the instruction be provided at the third-party organization or to students at the Participant's School that originate from an agreement with a third-party organization.
